Who Too is the Premier Northern California Who Tribute band playing together since December 2004. Performing Who material from every decade, the band recreates the live and studio sound onstage with all the energy of the Who at their height in the 70's. Who Too defies any audience to shut their eyes and not believe it's the real thing: booming vocals, dead-on drumming, gutsy guitar, blistering bass, and sumptuous keyboards, all converging in the classic and erudite arrangements and harmonies unmistakably shouting THE WHO. The Who are priceless and rare. Who Too are less expensive, younger, and available for your event .

Who Too are:

Chick Hawksley (Roger Daltry) - Vocals - Chick's last NYC band "Lick" had the honor of opening for (Sir)John Entwistle shortly before his passing. Upon introduction Sir John remarked "Chick, eh? Bassist eh, Poor Bastard!" Chick is short for Chichankwok, meaning, 'Killer of enemies / Child of the Moon'. Don't ask.

John Nunes (Pete Townshend) - Guitar/Vocals- John idolized Pete Townshend as a teenager and well into his 20's. John practiced windmills and playing loud back then!. In addition to playing with Who Too, John has his own jam/funk band called Mojo Stew which plays his original music and jazz/funk covers.

Tim Boomer (John Entwistle) - Bass/Vocals - Currently in many bay area bands has been performing locally since 1975. He also wrote a book of Bass Syles with Mick Berry: "The Bassist's Bible". The first bass line Tim learned to play in 1969 was Entwistle's "Boris the Spider". He still has had a persistant ringing sound in his ears since seeing the Who live that year at the Fillmore West a sound that only goes away when playing with Who Too on stage.

Mick Berry (Keith Moon) - Drums/Vocals - Author of "The Drummer Bible" and plays in many bands locally performing in the bay area. Mick, definitely a longtime Who fanatic, recently made a trip to London to take a drum lesson with Keith Moon's old teacher Carlo Little. When they finally had the lesson, Carlo exclaimed "Now I've finally met someone even more insane than Keith".
